TASK 1 : Population Distribution Of Countries in 2024

Explanation:
The dataset used in this task is sourced from the World Bank and contains population data of different countries. Using MS Excel, a horizontal bar chart was created to visualize the population distribution of ten selected countries for the year 2024. Since countries represent categorical data, a bar chart is an appropriate visualization technique. The data is arranged from lowest to highest population to enhance readability and comparison. This visualization helps in clearly understanding population differences across countries.
